Message from
Rt. Hon. R. G. Menzies,
Prime Minister.

Mr. R. G. Menzies

"AS a keen follower of Australian National Football I am happy to send a message of goodwill on the occasion of the Council's All-Australian Championships in Queensland. Australian football enjoys an honoured place in the field of sport. It has contributed largely to the moulding of our national character, and has given us a reputation for fair play. It promotes physical fitness and develops that spirit of team work which is essential to the effective functioning of any nation. I trust that your enterprise in holding this Championship Carnival at Brisbane will prove successful, and that it will further the interests of the National Game."

Robert Menzies

The Premier of Queensland Extends a Welcome.

Mr. E. M. Hanlon.

ON behalf of the Government and people of Queensland I heartily welcome the teams from our five sister States which together with Canberra, the Australian Amateurs, the Victorian Football Association, and our own team will compete in the first all-Australian Football Championship of the series ever to be held in Brisbane.

This epoch marking move in the development of Australian National Football is accepted as a compliment to Queensland and I am sure that the 380 visitors who come with the teams will take away with them pleasant memories of their sojourn here.

Your game has not made such great strides in Queensland as in other States, but I understand it is finding an ever-increasing following. The championship games may, therefore, add considerably to the popularity of the code in Queensland.

One thing you will find is that the people of Queensland are lovers of sport and generous in their appreciation of any game well played.

We are happy to have you with us and hope you will enjoy your stay.

E. M. HANLON,
Premier.

A Message from Mr. Wally Stooke, President of the Australian National Football Council.

MR. Wally Stooke.

AS president of the Australian National Football Council may I express the Council's thanks to the Premier of Queensland, Mr. E. M. Hanlon, and his Government for their generous hospitality in arranging sightseeing tours for the visiting teams; to Brisbane's Lord Mayor, Ald. Chandler, for his cordial welcome at the civic reception tendered players and officials; and, to all those people and organisations who, by extending hospitality and assistance, have helped us to stage this 11th Australian Football Championship, which, I trust, will prove a memorable one in the annals of the Australian game.

I feel I must pay tribute to those wonderful pioneers who, nearly 100 years ago, laid the foundations of the Australian game of football. We have cherished the heritage they bequeathed us, and it is our earnest hope and desire that this great Australian game, which advances every year in public estimation, will soon become as popular a pastime in Queensland as it is in all the Southern States of the Commonwealth.

W. STOOKE,
President.

GROUND MARKINGS

A centre circle, ten feet in diameter.

Distance between all posts is seven yards.

A kick-off rectangle is the full width of the space between the goal posts and extends ten yards into the playing arena.

A white line encircling the ground and denoting the playing area's boundary.

TEAMS

Consist of eighteen players and two reserves (to be used as necessary to replace injured players or at the captain's discretion at any time during the game).

The players fill the following field positions: Three forwards, three half forwards, three centres, three half backs, three backs. In addition each team has a "ruck" of three players (two followers and a rover). The rucks take up their positions around the centre circle at the start of the game and after the scoring of each goal, but during the course of the game they follow the ball wherever it may go in any part of the field, hence the name "follower" given to ruck players.

OFFICIALS

The speed at which the Australian national game is played calls for the services of five umpires (or referees). These officials are:

The field umpire—who is in control of the game. He blows a whistle to signal the taking of a "mark," to indicate an infringement of rules for which a "free kick" is awarded to a player of the team handicapped by an infringement of the rules.

Two boundary umpires—one on each side of the playing arena—who signal to the field umpire when the ball goes "out of bounds," i.e., over the white line which is the boundary of the playing area.

Two goal umpires—one situated between the goal posts at each end of the ground—who determine whether a goal or behind has been scored and signal the score by means of flags. Two flags are waved for a goal. One flag is waved for a behind (or point).

SCORING

A goal (six points) is scored when the ball is kicked between the two inner tall posts (goal posts) without having been touched by any other player.

A behind (one point) is scored when

- (a) A ball travels between a goal post and an outer short post (behind post).
- (b) the ball is kicked between the two goal posts but is touched by any player in transit.
- (c) the ball strikes the goal post.

THE START

The game is started by the field umpire bouncing the ball in the centre circle. This is repeated each time a goal is scored.

WHAT CAN A PLAYER DO IN THE GAME?

Run with the ball, provided it is bounced at least once every ten yards.

Kick the ball off the ground. There is no "knock on" rule in Australian football.

Pass the ball to a team mate by either a kick or a hand pass. There is no "offside" rule in the Australian game.

Kick for goal.

"Mark" the ball—which means he is then allowed a kick without interference.

Receive a "free kick" if an opponent infringes the rules. A "free kick" is taken without interference from an opponent.

Shepherd—or block—an opponent from tackling a team mate.

WHAT IS A HAND PASS?

In hand passing the ball must be held steady in one hand and struck with the other hand. The clenched fist is the most effective method of hitting the ball. Throwing is not permitted.

WHAT IS A "MARK"?

A mark is given when a player catches the ball which has been kicked more than ten yards by another player. From the time it is kicked until it is marked it must not touch the ground or be touched by another player.

WHAT IS MEANT BY "SHEPHERDING"?

"Shepherding" means stopping an opponent from tackling a team mate who is in possession of the ball. The "stopping" or "shepherding" must be done fairly without any infringement of the rules, such as pulling, holding, elbowing, or tripping.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN THE BALL GOES "OUT OF BOUNDS"?

The boundary umpire stands on the boundary line, faces away from the arena and throws the ball high in the air over his head ten or fifteen yards back into the playing arena.

HOW CAN A PLAYER TACKLE?

By meeting his opponent with his hip or shoulder, pushing him in the side or grabbing him around the waist whilst he has the ball.

FOR WHAT CAN "FREE KICKS" BE GIVEN?

- (a) Throwing the ball.
- (b) Holding the ball too long when held or retarded, provided it is not in manner as specified in point "d" below.
- (c) Dropping the ball when held or retarded, provided it is not in manner as specified in point "d" below.
- (d) Grasping a player around the neck, shoulder or legs.
- (e) Pushing a player in the back or face.
- (f) Tripping.
- (g) Running for more than ten yards without bouncing the ball.

OUR AUSTRALIAN GAME

By W. R. CATHIE (Editor, Victorian Football Record.)

TO-DAY we see the flower of Australia's athletes gathered in Brisbane for the 11th Australian National Football Championship. Robust, hard, eager, keen as hawks, swift of foot as deer, each man among them fired by the desire to excel, not as the individual, but as the force from his State, determined to take back the laurel wreath of victory. The prize is intrinsically of little value. It is the honour of victory that is the big reward.

What is this wonderful game of ours, that increases in popularity year by year? The story of its origin, growth and development reads like a romance, so picturesque was its beginning and so wonderful has been its progress. In Australia, a land of sportsmen, sport has always played a predominant role in the development of the nation, and the national game of football has exercised a profound and lasting influence in creating and fostering those qualities of courage, toleration, self-reliance and co-operation that are so vital in youth's rise to manhood and a nation's rise to greatness.

It is only right and proper at this time, when football holds such sway in Australia, that one's memory should turn with a feeling of gratitude and admiration to those gallant men of the early days of Victoria who gave to this country such a wonderful game as that which has brought together in friendly rivalry Australia's finest athletes. It is natural that children born in new lands should play the traditional games of their forefathers, and so it was in Australia, with one notable exception—the Australian brand of football, which is the only sporting pastime in this land of ours that is truly of local origin.

The Australian game has justly earned the title of the national game of Australia. It had its origin in this country, and is played in every state of the Commonwealth, predominating to the exclusion of almost every other football game in Victoria, South Australia, Western Australia and Tasmania. In recent years it has shown marked progress in both New South Wales and Queensland.

From a popularity and birth point of view the Australian game is national in both origin and design, being racy of the soil and suited to the character of the people. The total attendances at senior club games each week testify to its amazing popularity in the southern States. In Melbourne over 10 per cent. of the population watch Australian football every Saturday, while in Adelaide, Perth and Hobart the proportion is even higher.

Much of the success of Australian football is due to the grand foundations laid by the pioneers, men like H. C. A. Harrison, T. W. Wills, W. J. Hammersley and J. B. Thompson. Those pioneers were men of vision. They foresaw the desire for a game that would suit the youth of this great country, more so than would the football codes of Old England.

Football had not been played in Australia prior to 1856, but in that year T. W. Wills, an Australian, and cousin of H. C. A. Harrison, the "father of the game," arrived from England, fresh from the Rugby school and enthusiastic about all forms of sport. He arrived at the psychological moment. Wills considered that rugby was unsuitable for grown men engaged in making a livelihood, and that all should combine in working out a game of their own.

They cut from the English games some of their characteristics, seeking something original, something that would, while giving the players whole-hearted enjoyment, afford high entertainment for those who were to be onlookers.

May 8, 1866, must be considered a red-letter day in the annals of Australian football, as on that historical day a meeting of delegates from the Melbourne, South Yarra, Royal Park and Carlton clubs was held at the Freemasons' Hotel, Swanston Street, to affirm, amend or reject the first draft of laws under which the game was to be played. To Mr. H. C. A. Harrison was entrusted that pioneer task, and his dozen laws were carried unanimously, without any alteration of any kind. It was a great compliment to "the father of the game." The grand pioneers who approved those laws 84 years ago left us a wonderful heritage.

Those men built better than they knew. Little did they think that as the years rolled by their new-born game would become a magnet so powerful that football would pull the public as no other form of athletics could attract them in the winter months. It is to that gallant band, whose dozen primary laws still form the basis of the rule book of to-day, that we should give all credit. They planned; we who have followed have worked on their planning.

No other game has ever spread with such rapidity. It had virgin soil in which to grow, and it spread apace. Clubs sprang up everywhere as if by magic, and the youth of the land took to it as a duck takes to water. The game became a beacon fire that roused the countryside. It was a new interest, opening a whole new vista of unexplored possibilities in the world of sport. The young men revelled in its spills and thrills, and their elders, as spectators, found it dashing and spectacular.

The amazing increase of clubs and players, and the added interest thereby engendered, brought so many hitherto undreamed of possibilities into the game that a revision and addition to the governing laws became absolutely essential. As time went by the burdensome parts of the laws were clipped away. Teams were reduced in size, premiership competitions were organised and interest continued to quicken.

At the turn of the century the game was solidly established in Tasmania, South Australia, Western Australia and Victoria, and there was a strong desire to place it on a firm footing in N.S.W. and Queensland. So the Australian National Football Council was formed and began to function in 1906. Hitherto controlling bodies in each State had possessed full power in the making and interpretation of the laws of the game. Now these all important matters became of national and not local significance. The Council, having adopted the Victorian League laws in their entirety, rightly assumed control of the Australian game. As it developed and became even more national in character, the

A Prophetic Tribute

Alfred Deakin, Prime Minister of Australia, at a smoke concert tendered by the Victorian League to the teams taking part in the 1908 Carnival in Melbourne, proposed the toast, "The Australasian Game of Football." The remarkable speech this distinguished Statesman made on that occasion is worth recording in part:

"... my days of football are past so many years that, although the memories are not clouded, I have perfect recollection that the game as I played it was conducted under rules rather foreign and much more literal than those which you now enjoy. But at that time, as now, I venture to think that the spirit which animated us was of no discredit to this country and no bad training for the youths of this country..."

"The games of football that I have played since then have been many and various, speaking symbolically, and they have carried on in other fields, but I have yet to find the game that carries as much pleasure, as much harmless excitement, and as much stimulus as the Australasian game of football... The time was when it was a Victorian game, but we now find that it is played wherever the sea washes the shores of Australia and all the interior between... The true sportsman, pitting himself at his best against an opponent under the rules of fair play, is the manifest man who walks this planet to-day..."

"The sense of fair play that is first in the breast of every player is, I am sorry to say, not always the first in the breast of the man who is applauding merely for his own side. The task of football in the future is, I hope, not only to educate the players, but to educate the spectators to the same high sense of fair play..."

"In this country we are bound to remain, as we always have been, a sporting people. I venture to believe that the element added to our national life by our sporting instincts is one not of the least honourable, but often one of the most efficacious. After all, a healthy mind rests upon a healthy body... The Australian game is becoming an Australasian game. And it may yet have an even wider scope so far as its education and practice are concerned..."

"The game is Australian in its origin, Australian in its principle, and, I venture to say, essentially of Australian development. It and every expression of the sporting spirit go to make that manhood which is competent for a nation's tasks. The fellow who can play an uphill game, and lose it with courage and good temper, is better fitted for the contests the world has in store for him..."

"When the tocsin sounds the call to arms, not the last, but the first to acknowledge it will be those who have played, and played well, the Australasian game of football before they play the Australian game of nation making and nation preserving."

Topline Australian clubs use THIS ball!

For

National Games

Majority of Southern Clubs choose "Lyre Bird" Special for their match lists—it is built to the highest quality.

The N. & Y. Lyre Bird Special is approved and used throughout Australia by the Australian National Football Council. Many League Clubs, such as Carlton, St. Kilda, North Melbourne, etc., use N. & Y. balls for match play and practice.

A big range of grades is available to suit all clubs. Ask to see Sky-master and Touchdown (the top grade Rugby ball).

Distributed through retailers only.

RACES POSTPONED FOR FOOTBALL

History was made in Perth in 1937 when Victoria met Western Australia in the deciding match of the Carnival. The Subiaco Oval, built to accommodate 32,000, crammed 38,824 spectators in every inch of available space. History was made when the local races were postponed to allow racegoers to see this match. That is but one proof, if such were needed, of the popularity of the game in the Golden West.

Record Victorian Attendance at a club match . . . 58,500 (Melbourne v. Essendon, M.C.G., 20th August, 1949). Twice this year crowds of 55,000 have attended the M.C.G. for a club game.

Record Attendance at a Final in Victoria . . . 96,834 (Carlton v. Collingwood, M.C.G., 24th September, 1938. Grand Final match). The Health Department later decided that the ground capacity be limited to approximately 85,000. At the 1949 Grand Final, however, 90,400 patrons passed through the turnstiles before the gates could be closed one hour and 15 minutes prior to the commencement of the game.

Record Attendance at an Interstate Match . . . Victoria . . . 61,182 (Victoria v. Western Australia, M.C.G., 20th August, 1948).

Industrial High School conducts a four-team House Competition.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—?

The Queensland National Football League has taken part in every All-Australian Football Championship since 1908.

The Primary Schools' League was formed 25 years ago with 20 teams. There are 60 school teams and 12 house teams registered this year.

Queensland created a record at the Hobart Championships in 1947 when four brothers represented this State. They were Alan, Phil, Ken and Jim Trewick.

Ken Trewick brought further distinction to Queensland sport when he won this year's famous Stawell Gift.

Queensland schoolboys won the All-Australian Schools' Carnival at Adelaide last year. It was Queensland's first success in National Carnivals.

George Nuss, former captain-coach of Mayne and State representative, won the J. L. Williams Medal, for the best and fairest schoolboy in 1932 and 1933.

Doug. Pittard, 1950 Championship player, and captain-coach of Western Districts, is the only player to win the Q.A.N.F.L. trophy for Best and Fairest player twice.

Alister Sanders (Yeronga), holds the Queensland goal-kicking record with 99 goals kicked in 1949.

Ascot State School, with fourteen complete National Football teams, has more registered players than any other Primary school in the Commonwealth.

Wilston State School is not far behind Ascot, with ten teams playing National Football.

Brisbane Football Club and The Rovers Club were great rivals in the early days, and in 1883 played four drawn games.

There are 1300 players registered with the Q.A.N.F.L. this year. There are eight senior "A" grade teams, 10 "B" grade teams and 31 junior league teams.

SPECTACULAR FEATURES OF THE GAME

The Australian game of football—Australia's national game—is undoubtedly the most spectacular sport played anywhere in the world. What makes it so is its many thrilling phases, the sustained action, and the speed and stamina of the players.

On witnessing a game for the first time one marvels at the beautiful long range kicking, the phenomenal high marking, and the skill with which players handle the ball.

With the drop kick, punt and place kicks National players are usually highly proficient, although the vogue for the place kick is not as popular nowadays as of yore. Weak kicking is bad football in the Australian code, so players are encouraged and taught to apply the boot to the ball with that perfect timing that facilitates easy and rangy despatch. Another remarkable aspect of ball control is the stab kick passing, by which the ball is shot from the foot like a bullet out of a gun to a player in position. So accurate are many of the players with the stab kick that, while travelling at top speed, they can kick the ball and hit men on the chests from 25 to 40 yards or so, and the ball will not travel much higher than four or five feet from the ground.

High marking is a thrilling spectacle, unique to Australian Rules. The players jump from the ground and take the ball with outstretched arms. Often a man will leap two or three feet from the ground, and with arms extended over his head will hold the ball ten feet or more from the ground. Players leap together in packs, but generally it is the man who uses the best judgment in the split-second timing of his jump who is successful.

Handling the ball on the ground is a very essential feature of the game. Most players can pick it up like lightning while moving at top speed.

Another great attraction of the game is that players of various heights and weights may play it. The fast moving midget of five feet can shine, particularly on the wing or roving, while the 14-stone giant excels in the air and in the heavy ruck play. Lastly, the Australian game has no time for a player who makes the man his objective, and not the ball.

The Eric Tassie Medal

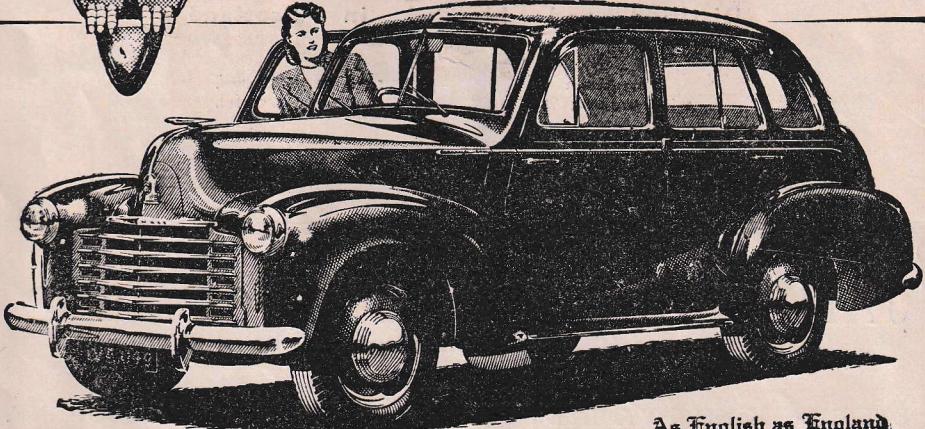

The Eric Tassie Medal is awarded to the player adjudged best and fairest during the series of games at the Championship Carnival—on the votes of the central umpires. The award was instituted to commemorate the memory of Mr. Eric Tassie, a leading South Australian football administrator, who did wonderful work over many years to advance the interests and ideals of our great National game. Mr. Tassie was at one time President of the Australian National Football Council.

The honour of being the first winner of the Tassie Medal fell to D. J. ("Mick") Cronin, champion Western Australian centreman, who represented his State on many occasions, and then turned to umpiring, doing an excellent job at the 1947 Carnival series.

In Hobart, in 1947, the voting resulted in a tie between Les McClements (Western Australia) and R. Furler (Canberra).

Special £450 Sprint Match Race

K. Trewick and E. Cumming

The special sprint match race to be conducted during the carnival brings two outstanding athletes, K. Trewick (Queensland) and E. Cumming (Victoria), into competition. They have a prize worth striving for, £350 for the winner with a consolation prize of £100 for the man in second place!

E. CUMMING.

This magnificent prize has been made possible through the generosity of three well-known Melbourne sportsmen, Messrs. John Wren, Clive Marsh and Albert Smith who have donated amounts of £250, £100 and £100 respectively.

The runner who wins two of the three heats to be contested becomes the winner. The heats will be run on Wednesday night, July 19 (75 yards), Saturday afternoon, July 22 (130 yards) and Saturday evening, July 22 (100 yards).

K. Trewick to race in Queensland League jersey.

E. Cumming to race in Victorian League jersey.

All races to be run under the joint supervision and control of the Victorian and Queensland Athletic Leagues. Starting blocks to be used.

Messrs. W. Beckwith (V.A.L. President) and J. Bull (V.A.L. Secretary) to officiate for the Victorian Athletic League.

In the event of either runner not appearing the match race to be declared "off."

A UNIQUE RECORD

A record unique in the annals of Australian football is held by Bill Mayman. He is the only player ever to represent three different States in Football Carnivals, having played for Western Australia, South Australia and Tasmania. He captained two States—South Australia and Tasmania. He played senior football for 22 years, playing 315 League and 28 Carnival and Interstate games—truly an amazing record.

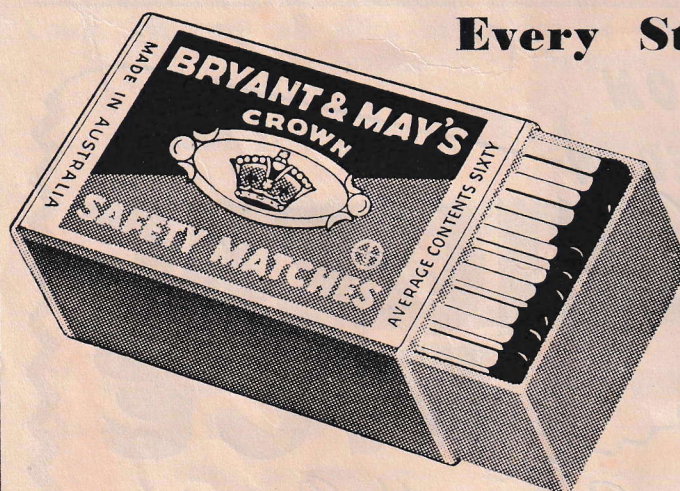

Our Australian Game - contd.

members comprising the Council regarded the game from a Commonwealth aspect and inaugurated Australian championships, of which ten have been held, and in which every State is eligible to compete.

The first meeting of the Council was held in Melbourne in 1906, Mr. C. M. Hickey being President, and the first Carnival under its auspices was held, also in Melbourne, in 1908. The first Interstate match had been played in 1877 between South Australia and Victoria and was won by the latter.

Invaluable work has been done by the Council in improving the standard of football and enhancing the popularity of the game in the weaker football States. Its system of finance permits liberal endowment in this regard, and the Council rightly considers this as one of its most important functions and responsibilities. It is the body that originated the Carnival championships, a medium through which knowledge and popularity of the game has developed appreciably.

Of no lesser importance is the control the Council exercises in ensuring that uniform laws and interpretations shall be enforced throughout the Commonwealth. Control of Interstate players' clearances and many other duties fall to the Council, which in a variety of ways is able to invest the game with that measure of vitalising control without which sound and enterprising direction would quickly give way to chaos.

Nicholas Pty. Ltd. Dear Sirs,
C/o. Richmond Football Club,
RICHMOND, Vic. 9th May, 1947.
I have been head trainer of the Richmond Football Club for the past 7 years, and consider 'Aspro' indispensable for keeping the players free from colds and 'Flu.'

At the first sign of a cold, I give them 3 tablets and advise another 3 tablets with hot lemon on retiring. If 'flu' has developed 'Aspro' given as before relieves the attack in no time.

During my 23 years' association with sport I have trained cyclists in championship class, and here again 'Aspro' has kept their training unbroken by colds and 'flu'. One, an Australian Junior Champion, found 'Aspro' and a warm drink on retiring ensured him a good night's rest after hard training had keyed him up.

As I believe this advice will be of benefit to others, you have my permission to use this letter as you wish.

Yours faithfully,

J. Booth
